

ABSTRACT

A silicon nitride cuvette window for a microsampling device and method of construction are provided. The sample to be analyzed is drawn into the cuvette of the microsampling device. The silicon 5 nitride window permits optical measurements to be made on analytes contained within the cuvette.